

Kindergarten News from Miss Bower's Class November 15, 2013

Our Week!

This week we explored more non-fiction—this time focusing on squirrels. First, we discussed how living things grow, change, and adapt during the fall season. Next, we discussed the different ways that they adapt in the fall to survive. Ask your child to tell you one way a squirrel gets ready for winter!

In writer's workshop we focused on vowels. These are some of the hardest sounds to hear when stretching words out. We made a vowel chart together and the students learned that there is not a single word in the world that doesn't have a vowel! Checking for vowels in our writing will be a regular part of writer's workshop, now!

Have a wonderful weekend! ☺
